KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP)—Harrell T. Vance, 45, director in Jamaica for the Agency of International Development (AID), collapsed due to a heart attack while playing in a golf tournament at Caymana's park yesterday and died soon afterward at the medical associates private institution here.

Mr. Vance took up his appointment here in January last year as first mission director for Jamaica. He lived here with his wife and four daughters, after living until 1962 at 11 Martha's Foad, Hollin Hills, Fairfax County.

Mr. Vance had been in U.S. government service since 1939. He joined AID in 1962 and served as acting assistant administrator before coming to Jamaica.

A former assistant commissioner of Internal Revenue for Administration, he had served in the General Accounting Office from 1939 to 1947. He was with the Treasury Department from 1947 to 1950.

Before being appointed to his Revenue position, Mr. Vance was director of management for the Economic Stabilization Agency from 1951 to 1953.

Born in Anniston, Ala., he attended Howard College, in Birmingham, and was graduated from George Washington University in 1944 and later took a law degree at George Washington.

In January, 1952, he was nominated by the Economic Stabilization Agency for the William Jump Memorial Award as the outstanding Federal administrator under 37 years of age.

The body will be flown to Alabama for burial today. Mr. Vance's wife and daughters will accompany the body.

Col. Lawrence St. John, 51; Retired Army Engineer

Retired Army Col. Lawrence R. St. John, 51, a former deputy chief of the Logistics and Plans Division of the Army General Staff at the Pentagon, died after a heart attack Wednesday in Raleigh, N.C.

Col. St. John, who retired in 1962 and had just accepted an educational post in North Carolina, lived at 318 Westmoreland Road, Alexandria.

He had been in Raleigh for the past month as director of adult education at the W. W. Holding Educational Center, a unit of the North Carolina Community College program.

Born in Martinsville, Ind., Col. St. John was graduated from American University this past June with a master's degree in administration.

He was a 1935 graduate of the U.S. Military Academy, and also held a master of science degree from Iowa State University. He came to the Washington area about seven years ago.

Col. St. John was a member of the Army Corps of Engineers during his military service, a member of the Society of American Engineers and a vestryman of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Alexandria.

He leaves his wife, Katherine E., and a daughter, Helen L., of the home.

Services will be at 10:30 a.m. Monday at St. Luke's Church, followed by burial at Arlington Cemetery.

The family asks that expressions of sympathy be in the form of contributions to the Heart Fund or the St. Luke's Memorial Fund.

Charles P. Snyder, Retired Admiral Won Navy Cross

Retired Adm. Charles Philip Snyder, 85, the Navy's first inspector general and a winner of the Navy Cross during World War I, died Thursday at the Bethesda Naval Hospital.

A veteran of the Spanish-American War, the admiral's naval career spanned 47 years since his graduation from the U. S. Naval Academy in 1900 as fourth in his class. He was born in Charleston, W. Va.

Adm. Snyder was commissioned an ensign in 1902 after serving the two mandatory years at sea. When World War I began he was serving on the battleship U.S.S. Delaware in the Atlantic.

During the course of the war he commanded the U.S.S. Oregon, the U.S.S. Minneapolis, and the transport U.S.S. Mongolia.

While aboard the Mongolia he was awarded the Navy Cross for transporting and escorting troops and supplies to European ports. During the war not one American troop ship was sunk on the way to France.

In 1919 Adm. Snyder was in charge of the industrial department of the Portsmouth (N.H.) Naval Yard and in 1922 went to sea again as commander of the U.S.S. Argonne.

He attended the Naval War College in 1924 and in 1925 was on the college's staff. In 1926 he commanded the U.S.S. Concord and went on to serve as commandant of midshipmen at the Naval Academy from 1928 to 1931 when he left to assume command of the U.S.S. Tennessee.

President of the Naval War College from 1937 to 1939, Adm. Snyder was commander of the U.S. Fleet's Battle Force in 1940 and 1941.

Adm. Snyder was head of the inspection board for naval districts when named the Navy's first inspector general in June of 1942. He served on the Navy general staff from 1946 to 1947. He retired in 1947 and lived at 1870 Wyoming Ave. NW until his death.

He leaves his wife, the former Edith Hanlon, of the home; a son, retired Navy Rear Adm. Philip W. Snyder Jr., of New York City; two daughters, Mrs. Ethelbert Watts, of France, and Mrs. W. M. Collins, of San Diego, Calif., and six grandchildren and four great-grandchildren.
